

TRAINING

Spectra Group (UK) is a specialist provider of telecommunications based training courses that equip personnel with up-to-date knowledge of the equipment and skills required to manage communications strategies deployed by security, governmental and aid organisations around the world. We are one of the UK's leading suppliers of training courses to the MoD.

Spectra's highly experienced training staff are exceptionally qualified in the provision of Training Needs Analysis as well as the design, development and delivery of a wide range of professional courses, ensuring effective management from cradle to grave.

Courses can be delivered at our unique residential training facility which includes extensive private grounds.

Training Needs Analysis

Spectra has the experience and skill to conduct TNA's on any new or existing communications equipment to provide users with a clear requirement of what training is required to ensure the equipment is utilised to its fullest potential. The outcome of the TNA will be a set of clearly defined training objectives which must be delivered to achieve operational effectiveness. We specialise in the delivery of TNA's against the strict criteria laid down in JSP 822. This process is well proven and easily adapted to any scenario.

Training Design, Development and Delivery

Courseware is designed using a combination of technical specifications, documents and equipment. This enables the development of training materials, which can include re-usable training packages. Our training delivery team has many years experience of delivering training across the three services and ensures that every aspect of the TNA reports, including training objectives, are delivered to the end users.

Bespoke Training Courses

We conduct bespoke training courses to meet your specific requirements. Our current portfolio can be drawn on to create bespoke courses includes:

- HF/VHF/Satellite theory and practical
- VSAT systems and protocols
- Portable Satellite Systems
- IS and IT engineering
- Router management and configuration
- Network Planning

Training Facility

Training can take place at customer preferred locations or at our training facility near Hereford. This unique environment supports residential courses and has three classrooms as well as four acres of outside training areas providing an ideal learning experience for students.
